CAR CRASHES BRING HURTS TO SIX HERE

One Autoist Arrested
For Drunk Driving,
Another Cited

Accidents over the week-end in this vicinity brought arrest of two men and injury of six persons.

Arrested were Clarence T. Johnson, 36, hospital attendant, of 640 Almond street, East Palo Alto, on a charge of driving while intoxicated, and William P. Reilly, 834 Webster, Palo Alto, cited for reckless driving. Both are at liberty on bail. Johnson, released on $500 bond, will appear Thursday before Justice Edward L. McAuliffe.

Johnson was arrested by local police after his car and machine of Lee H. Wakefield, San Francisco, and W. C. Tyner, Agnew State Hospital, collided on El Camino Real near Dumbarton street at 6:35 p. m. Saturday.

While the wreckage was being cleared away, the car of Mrs. E. Ellerson, Oakland, rammed the rear of the truck driven by A. Marchi, 111 South Grant street, San Mateo, who had stopped to allow the tow car to remove the wrecked automobiles. Mrs. Ellerson suffered a lacerated right leg and a hip injury.

Reilly was arrested after his car collided with the machine of Albert Medero, San Jose. Hurt were Rose Ferrera, Alviso, who suffered a hand injury, and Medero. The accident happened on the Bayshore highway a mile north of Redwood City.

The other two people hurt were Mrs. Eva E. Perks, 44, and Mrs. Helen Stuart, 47, who incurred slight injuries when the cars of H. F. Myers, 33, Cuesta La Honda, and F. W. Perks, 46, San Francisco, collided on the La Honda road.

Elderly Man Dies in Blaze At Fair Oaks

William Clark Victim
Of Heater Fumes
While Reading

Apparently overcome by fumes from his oil heater, William A. Clark, 75-year-old retired metal worker who had lived here for the past eight years, died in his flaming cabin early Monday.

The elderly man, a client of the county social service department, lived alone in a small house on the property of John Massia, Third avenue, North Fair Oaks.

He was accustomed to read late at night, neighbors said, and it is believed that while he was sitting on a couch reading he was overcome and toppled against one of two heaters he used, knocking it over. The heater set the room on fire, and before the blaze was extinguished by Fire Warden Bert Werder's county department, Mr. Clark had suffocated.

DOGS DIE IN SLEEP

Two fox terrier dogs which Mr. Clark had in the room with him also died. Their bodies were found under the bed, Fireman Ernest Werder said. Apparently they had died as they slept.

One arm and leg of the body of Mr. Clark was burned, but the burns were not severe, suffocation having caused death, it is believed. Because the house was tightly closed, the fire did not burn any other except in the vicinity of the man and the couch on which he was sitting. His clothing was not burned except for one trouser leg and a sleeve. The newspaper he had been reading was lying intact on his chest, firemen said.

INHALATOR TAKEN OUT

The fire had been discovered at 12:25 a. m. by A. Bothello, 34 North Eldorado street, San Mateo. He had been visiting in the neighborhood and was starting to leave for home when he noticed a glow in the window of the Clark cabin. He ran to the nearby home of James Heath who called the county fire department.

The Redwood City Fire Department's inhalator also was rushed to the scene, but was not used when it was determined Clark already was dead.

The fire apparently had smoldered for some time, according to Deputy Sheriff Thomas Maloney, who investigated. The flames did not flare up until a window was broken to get a fire hose into the cabin.

SURVIVED BY DAUGHTER

Mr. Clark was born February 8, 1860, in Kentucky. Prior to moving here in 1928 he lived in San Francisco for 15 years. He belonged to the United Ironworkers Union.

Mrs. Biber Will Get New Duties About Feb. 1st

Mrs. Ellen Biber, now on a 10-day vacation following her removal as superintendent of the Department of Social Welfare yesterday, will return to work February 1 on a job to be created for her by the supervisors, County Manager Walter T. Kellogg announced today.

Details of the position Mrs. Biber will fill have not as yet been worked out, Kellogg said. He indicated it would be in the old-age pension department, now handled by Mrs. Teresa Altieri and Miss Pearl McCormick. The former now handles cases north of San Mateo while Miss McCormick has cases south of that city. Kellogg said the fact there was now too much work for the present staff would justify creation of a new post.

Joseph G. Walker, who several months ago replaced Mrs. Mary Sooy as secretary to Dr. Gans, is acting as temporary superintendent.

Ward's Paint Contest Opens For Peninsula

"Paint your house free" is the offer which is being made by Montgomery Ward today to anyone who can win the paint contest being sponsored by the company. The contest lasts from January 24 to February 8.

Requirements consist only of the writing of a simple, 20-word slogan and the filling out of the contest entry blank which includes an estimate of the amount of paint that will be needed to paint the house.

The blanks with spaces for the slogan and the estimate can be secured at the Ward store, 2317 Broadway, Redwood City, during the time of the contest. The winner will be awarded enough paint to cover the exterior of his house with two coats.

A special inducement will be offered to those wishing to paint their houses during the contest without waiting for the announcement of winners. The award will be doubled in case the winner has purchased his paint during the contest.

Competition is open to everyone, except Montgomery Ward employees and members of their immediate families. One award will be made exclusively to citizens of the peninsula. No purchase at the store is required for entrance. Each person may make only one entry, and all entries must be in the Ward store by 6 p. m. on Saturday, February 8.

"The purpose of this contest," Thomas Joaquin, Ward store manager said today, "will be to acquaint the public with the superior quality of Ward's Super House Paint. Recent scientific improvements in paint pigments have made it possible for us to offer paint that lasts longer, looks better and is more economical."

$4,834 FUND FOR AIRPORT ANTICIPATED

Application Receives
Approval in S. F.
And Goes East

Municipal development of the Redwood City airport continues to move nearer reality, the city council learned Monday, when it was informed its WPA application for $4,834 in federal funds to build a $8,775 hangar at the field had hurdled what was expected to be its greatest obstacle.

This was the securing of approval of the United States Department of Commerce, Bureau of Air Commerce, of the project providing for construction of the 90-by-90-foot hangar, of wood frame, galvanized corrugated sheathing and roof and cement floor.

SENT TO EAST

Word of the approval came to Acting City Manager Charles Dimmitt from Robert L. Campbell, district adviser of the commerce bureau, with headquarters in San Francisco.

He informed the city that its application for aid had been approved and sent on to Washington. Airport Committeeman Cliff Walk told the council he learned that no application so far approved by Campbell had been turned down, giving hope the Redwood City project likewise would meet with favor in Washington.

Walk followed up the announcement of approval, he told the council, by dispatching a letter to Rep. John J. McGrath asking him to lend his aid to the project in the national capital.

PILOTS INTRODUCED

After hearing a discussion of the benefits and disadvantages of granting a monopolistic franchise to a school at the port, the council decided to await further action on its WPA application before making a decision.

John Lyons of Palo Alto, who has applied for exclusive training school privileges at the port, appeared before the council, bringing with him Lieuts. John Kelly and Douglas Birch, pilots who would be instructors under him. Charles Cooley, who formerly operated here, appeared to protest the granting of any single permit for a school.

A 15 per cent increase in retail business was registered in Birmingham, Ala., during 1935.

GRAND JURY URGES GATES TO END BROADWAY PERIL

Ultimate Grade Separation Held Necessary
To End Hazards of Rail Collisions;
Lanterns Used Called 'Relics'

Branding rail crossings "death traps" and crossing watchmen's lanterns "relics of the horse and buggy age," the county grand jury Tuesday recommended to the city of Redwood City that it:

1. Take drastic action to eliminate perils at the Broadway crossing by means of crossing gates.
2. Make all city crossings traffic arterial stops.
3. Give watchmen power to enforce traffic laws.

The recommendation came after the jury's traffic safety committee, headed by Allen Ward, had investigated the crash here a week ago Sunday which took four lives. Ward said their inquiry developed no indication that any criminal negligence had been shown; that the coroner's jury verdict of "unavoidable accident" was, in the committee's opinion, proper.

Dist. Atty. Gilbert Ferrell, jurymen said, discussed with them the Kathleen Robinson murder case, but it was not considered thoroughly, the jury preferring to leave investigation of the unsolved slaying up to his office. The jury meets again next Tuesday.

Text of the crossing recommendation follows:

"The gruesome details of the horrible grade crossing tragedy at Broadway, Redwood City, in which a man and three children were killed would make startling headlines for another edition of Sudden Death.

"Many progressive communities have entirely eliminated grade crossings. They are all death traps.

"Two months ago this grand jury urged federal, state, county and municipal action to eliminate the immediate hazards and make plans for their ultimate elimination.

"Drastic action is first suggested for municipal officials. Crossing gates might have prevented this latest catastrophe.

"Making all city crossings traffic arterial stops would no doubt aid.

"Watchmen could be given police power to enforce traffic laws. The so-called standard equipment of watchmen, namely, coal oil lanterns, are relics of the horse and buggy age."

LOCAL TAX SETUP BOTHERING S. F.

But Kirkbride Avers
Consolidation Would Cut Levy Bodies

Whether taxing bodies can be reduced in numbers by a merger of San Francisco with San Mateo county resulted in leaders of the movement in the two areas advancing arguments pro and con over the week-end.

Controller Leonard Leavy of San Francisco first declared that San Francisco's committee is not rushing headlong into an endorsement of consolidation because San Mateo county has 104 separate taxing agencies.

"San Francisco has just eight taxing agencies," said Controller Leavy. "Before we get enthusiastic over consolidating with San Mateo county, we want to know what is going to become of the more than 100 separate units in that county that have the power to levy taxes and assessments."

A map prepared by the state chamber of commerce shows San Francisco is bettered by only one, and approached by only one other, sparsely populated mountain counties, in the smallness of its number of taxing agencies, Leavy explained. Figures for the various counties run up to the 690 possessed by Los Angeles county.

Leavy's assertions brought an answer from Col. C. N. Kirkbride, chairman of this county's consolidation committee. He declared that under consolidation local taxation units would be absorbed in the consolidated government as provided in the consolidation act of 1929. Merger would work a material saving in the area affected, he said.

Option Secured On Brown Acres For Harbor Site

An option for 18 months on 2½ acres of water front property adjoining the cement plant at a cost of $1,500 per acre was given today's hearing of the case which has left him with two legal wives.

The option was sent to the council by Attorney Peter Tum Sudeen on behalf of the heirs. Meanwhile, City Attorney Albert Mansfield reported confidence that an early ruling from Attorney General U. S. Webb's office will establish the power of Redwood City to proceed with the port project.

Mansfield presented a copy of the request for an opinion sent by District Attorney Gilbert Ferrell to Webb establishing the city's powers to the council. It cites powers in the city charter giving the city the right to develop its waterways.

SECOND SHOOTING ATTEMPT IS FATAL

Frank Miller's Widow
Takes Own Life
In Road Cafe

(Special to The Tribune)
PALO ALTO, Jan. 20.—Despondent and not fully recovered from a nervous breakdown, Mrs. Josephine Miller, 51, shot herself to death in her room in Miller's Tavern on El Camino Real just south of here yesterday morning.

Mrs. Miller had had a breakdown resulting from the death of her husband, Frank J. Miller, on December 4.

She apparently was recovering, and was living at the tavern, although under care of a nurse.

As the nurse was preparing breakfast for her charge, she heard a shot, seemingly from Mrs. Miller's room. She rushed in, asking, "What was that?"

Mrs. Miller, appearing unconcerned, told the nurse the noise must have come from the highway.

Satisfied, the nurse returned to her work in the kitchen, only to hear another shot in a few minutes. Rushing back into the bedroom, she found Mrs. Miller fatally wounded. She died a short time later at a hospital.

Apparently Mrs. Miller had missed with the first shot of the revolver.

Surviving relatives include her son, Frank, 26, who has been managing the cafe.

Eunice Belle Wachter Dies at N.F.O. Home

Mrs. Eunice Belle Wachter passed away early Monday evening at the home of Mrs. W. L. Longmenus, 367 Seventeenth avenue, North Fair Oaks. She was a native of Sacramento, but had lived here for the past year and a half, prior to which she resided in San Francisco.

She was the widow of the late Frank J. Wachter, who died in July 1923. She also leaves brothers and sisters in San Francisco.

Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed. However, friends may call at the Layng & Tinney Funeral Home.

Sequoia Senior Wins Penmanship Award

For fluency, penmanship and proportion in her shorthand, Catherine Ferraro, Sequoia senior, today had been awarded a $2 cash prize in a contest staged by a pencil company. She was one of 50 students of shorthand in the United States to be so recognized.

Other Sequoia students are expected by Joseph De Brum, instructor, to receive certificates of merit for their performance in the contest.

Protest Voiced Over Shrieking Train Whistles

Protest against the shrieking train whistles was voiced Monday by Supervisor Fred Beer on behalf of patients at Community Hospital and residents of the peninsula in general, and efforts to have the railroad instruct its engineers to show "sweet reasonableness" will be launched.

Offenders are the men in the cabs of the freight locomotives which make their runs late at night and during the early morning hours. Beer said the regular passenger trains have muted whistles.

One of the ways in which the whistling will be minimized, it was agreed, would be to have fewer crossings, as the railroad right-of-way is posted with whistle signs which they must observe by law. Two crossings, 39th and Mills avenues, Beresford, are responsible for the whistling at the Community Hospital, the board learned.

Outlook Good For New Records In Auto Sales

With automobile sales climbing steadily toward new highs, Harry Dearborn, Chrysler-Plymouth dealer, yesterday commented on the outlook for the current year.

"Automobile manufacturers may look forward to a highly prosperous year in 1936," he said. "The need for replacement of old cars has been growing more and more acute during the past few years. In fact, during the next 12 months, approximately one-third of all motor cars in the United States will be seven or more years old."

"Naturally, the increased buying power which has been reflected in all lines of business, will result in the replacement of a large majority of these 'ancient vintage' automobiles. Too, people are becoming conscious of the greater safety offered in the modern motor car. Safety all-steel body; lowered center of gravity; the use of safety glass and interlocking frames and bodies are a few of the features found in the advanced motor car."

"A large number of these developments to increase safety have been pioneered by Walter P. Chrysler. Chrysler was the first car to use hydraulic brakes; the first manufacturer to develop scientific weight distribution and was largely responsible for the development of the present steel body and method of interlocking the body with the frame."

COUNCIL TO SEEK LOW WATER RATE

Meeting Called Friday
To Discuss Offer
From S. F.

With an offer of Hetch Hetchy water at 50 per cent less than now obtainable to be considered, nearly all members of the Redwood City council, Acting City Manager Charles Dimmitt and City Attorney Albert Mansfield will attend a meeting in San Carlos city hall Friday evening, along with officials from other peninsula cities.

"Climaxing two years' work by J. H. Sullivan of Menlo Park and a committee, the offer would bring price of water down to 12 cents if the peninsula used 5,000,000 gallons a day or 10 cents if 6,000,000 gallons were used. The water would have to be taken at one central point, however, probably at Belmont.

Sullivan will report this offer, made by Utilities Manager E. G. Cahill and Superintendent Nelson A. Eckart, to the meeting.

That all peninsula cities could easily take more than the required amount should all purchase from San Francisco can be seen when it is realized San Mateo uses some 2,000,000 gallons daily; Burlingame, Redwood City and Palo Alto about 1,500,000; South San Francisco and Lomita Park, 1,000,000 gallons.

Scheduled for consideration today, the hearing in the contest over the $22,000 estate of Charles H. Langley was postponed by Superior Judge Maxwell McNutt on January 27 on request of attorneys.

Blinding Sun Cuts Off View Of Locomotive

Ernest Garibaldi Fifth
Crossing Victim
For Year 1936

Becoming the fifth crossing accident victim this year in San Mateo county, Ernest Garibaldi, 24-year-old druggist living at 240 Hazel avenue, Millbrae Highlands, was instantly killed at 7:58 o'clock on Wednesday when his light coupe was struck at the main Millbrae crossing by the northbound Southern Pacific commuters' train No. 121.

Garibaldi, en route to work in the San Francisco drug store he and his father, A. Garibaldi, operate, apparently was blinded by the bright morning sun.

J. E. Rosetti, who witnessed the accident, told Coroner William Crosby the youth never stopped for the crossing, but proceeded easterly over the parallel street car tracks and on to the railroad right-of-way, directly in front of the speeding train which ordinarily does not stop in Millbrae.

SIGNAL WORKING, REPORT

The wig-wag signal was working, it was said. Garibaldi was riding alone.

The car of Garibaldi was demolished. It was carried nearly a hundred feet up the track before falling from the cowcatcher of the engine. The youth apparently died instantly of head injuries, Crosby said. His body was thrown out of the car after it had been dragged some 50 feet.

With his father, Garibaldi was owner of the Anchor Drug Stores in Colma, South San Francisco and 515 Columbus avenue, San Francisco.

Conductor of the train was George Malley; engineer, L. J. Covell. Both are of San Jose.

The accident occurred in the midst of an exhaustive inquiry into crossing perils by a half dozen organizations and official groups, and followed by only a few hours a new recommendation by the grand jury which branded all grade crossings death traps.

Young Garibaldi is survived by his wife and by his parents. His body was removed to Coroner Crosby's office pending funeral arrangements.

White Star Tuna Relies on 'Ads' To Sell Product

"More than $400,000 will be invested in White Star Tuna advertising during 1936," stated R. P. Harper, vice-president and general sales manager of the Van Camp Sea Food Company, Inc., Terminal Island, California.

"Upwards of 90 per cent of our advertising space will consist of newspaper advertising and our complete reliance on newspapers to effectively deliver our advertising message is based on the achievements for White Star Tuna during the past ten years," declared Harper.

The Van Camp Sea Food Company's advertising is one of the largest schedules that emanates from the Pacific Coast. In fact, it's one of the largest newspaper schedules in America and appears in hundreds of newspapers throughout the continent. The advertising has, since its inception, been prepared by Emil Brisacher and staff, a national advertising agency.

Garbage Board Recall Plea to State Set

(Special to The Tribune)
BAYSHORE CITY, Jan. 21.—Recall petitions in circulation here directed against Sam Elliger and George Stone of the Bayshore Sanitary District Board will go to the secretary of state direct and not to the board when signed, Atty. Frank Flynn, counsel for the recall backers, said today.

Fifty signatures are needed to call an election. Stone and Elliger's ousters are sought because they recently changed their attitude on garbage dumping, voting to let it continue.

HARBOR FUND WILL DEPEND ON ATTITUDE

Interests Here Must Meet Requirements,
Army Aide Reports

Prompt consideration will be given to the request for federal funds for dredging in Redwood Creek once sufficient local interest is shown, Brig. Gen. G. B. Pillsbury, acting chief of engineers, War Department, Washington, D. C., reported today.

In a letter to United States Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, General Pillsbury indicates that the reason no funds are now available lies in the attitude of local interests toward the Redwood Harbor project. This would apply to the inattention which the port has previously received from the county harbor district.

This situation, however, has been remedied by the council's interest, notice of which has come to General Pillsbury's attention. He says:

"I understand that the city officials of Redwood City are now giving active consideration to the measures necessary for compliance with these conditions. I may assure you that when satisfactory assurance of such compliance is received, prompt consideration will be given to the allotment of the necessary funds for this work."

General Pillsbury said no funds were now available. Port boosters, however, are requesting that funds be included in the new rivers' and harbors' bill to come up in March.

A copy of General Pillsbury's letter was sent to Edward T. Harrison, local banker, whose brother, Maurice Harrison, prominent San Francisco Democrat, is assisting the appeal, and to Councilman Evans Fleischer, Arthur V. Swift and W. H. Morrissey, who made personal appeals.

Mrs. Aylward was a native of Ireland, aged 64. She was a devoted wife and mother and a kind friend. Mrs. Aylward will be missed by her family and neighbors who loved her for her worth, kindness and devotion. She is survived by her husband, William Aylward, and two children, Thomas Aylward and Mrs. Catherine Roberts, whose husband is a pilot in an airline flying between San Diego and Oakland. The funeral on Monday from the Catholic Church was largely attended by sorrowing relatives and friends.

At a quiet dinner given by her mother, Mrs. A. G. C. Hahn, Glenwood avenue, the engagement of Miss Louise Hahn to Donald Fletcher was announced. The pretty bride-to-be is the only daughter of Mrs. Hahn and the late A. G. C. Hahn, who developed important photographic processes for the Eastman Company. Morell Elected Vice President Of Publishers

George F. Morell, president of the Peninsula Newspapers Inc., which publishes the Redwood City Tribune, is the new first vice-president of the California Newspaper Publishers' Association, it was announced today.

Morell was elected at the annual convention in Santa Monica. Frank Rospaw, owner of the Placencia (Orange county) Courier, is the new president. Roy Brown, of the Sanger Herald, is the second vice president.

EDITORIAL WINS

A Tribune editorial, "Truly Born of the Sea—But Now, Portless City," was accorded second honorable mention in a statewide contest of the California Newspaper Publishers' Association for the best state editorial, it was learned today. This is the second honor won by The Tribune in the state contests, an award of first honorable mention having been given to its editorial page.

Local Man Is Held On Battery Charge

On a warrant sworn to by O. L. Brown, collector living at 1193 Cleveland street, S. A. Buchanan, 705 Jefferson avenue, was arrested Tuesday by local police on a charge of battery. He was released on $1000 bond pending arraignment tomorrow before Judge Edward L. McAuliffe.

Brown alleges that he was thrown off a porch last November 29 by Buchanan, suffering hip injuries which until a few days ago confined him to a San Mateo hospital.

Coast Road Appeal Goes to Committee

Following an appeal by Supervisor Albert Witt that the Ocean Shore highway be included in the military road class to be eligible for federal aid, his suggestion was referred to the platform committee of the American Road Building Association now in session at Cleveland, O., according to a telegram received here today by County

Manager Walter Kellogg. According to the message, sentiment expressed by delegates indicated strong support would be received for the coast project.

14 MID-TERMERS GRADUATE FRIDAY

3 to Attend College As Sequoia Work Completed

Fourteen Sequoia students are candidates for graduation at the end of the winter quarter, Friday. Eleven of the students are sure of graduation, while three are prospective graduates pending scholarship adjustments.

Semester grades which will cover the work of the last two quarters will be given out Wednesday, January 29, according to Mrs. Leona Paine, secretary to Julianne Wolters, vice principal and registrar.

The mid-year graduating class is smaller than in the past two years. In 1935, 21 were graduated and 17 in 1934.

Only three of the students have definitely announced intention of going on into college. Stanley Robertson will attend San Mateo Junior College and Elizabeth Kusake will register at San Jose State. Both will enter immediately following the close of the Sequoia semester but Dorothy McPeak will not enter University of California at Los Angeles until next September.

The announcement was made by Miss Wolters that subject "A" English examination will be held Saturday at 9 a. m. at the San Mateo Junior College, with the aptitude test scheduled at 1:15 p. m. the same day.

Cloud Avenue Repair Asked By A. W. Bell

In a letter criticizing inattention, A. W. Bell appealed today to the San Mateo County Planning Commission to "remove the bog at Cloud avenue" near Menlo Park and thus aid a "useful and convenient outlet for the increasing population of University heights."

He also asked the planning commission to widen the roadway out of consideration for the increasing "drunken drivers."

The roadway which runs between Escondido and University heights tracts "is dangerously narrow," Bell's letter stated, and on each side there is a drop of about six feet into mud and water with "some nice soft rocks there to fall on."

S. M. 'Quake-Proofing' Suit Brings $16,848

Suit for $16,848.74 they allege is still due them for work done on the earthquake proofing of San Mateo high school last year was filed in superior court today by Associated Erectors Construction Co., Ltd. through Attorneys Harry I. Stafford and Dean Cunha.

Named defendants in the action are the school district and board; County Controller Edward Stack; C. L. Wold Construction Co., Ltd.; the Minneapolis Moline Power Implement Company, and the Minneapolis Steel Construction Company. The plaintiffs allege they erected the steel at the school, for which they rendered a bill of $23,153.74 but have received so far only $6,305 on account.

Soldier 33 Years Found Dead in Bed

(Special to The Tribune)
BRISBANE, Jan. 30.—Two weeks ago Andrew F. Worley, 61, finished 33 years service in the United States Army and retired, moving here to spend the rest of his days.

Saturday afternoon he was found dead when three of his former soldier buddies called on him. An autopsy showed he apparently had died, alone in his home, of pneumonia and resultant complications.

Deputy Sheriff Thomas Maloney investigated the death, which occurred in Worley's home at 233 Alvarado street. Worley was a retired sergeant of the Quartermaster's corps detachment.

10th ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

WE THANK YOU

This week we celebrate the completion of 10 years of successful automobile business as Ford Dealers in Redwood City. Our policies of fairness, honesty and reliability have stood the test of time.

We have served thousands of motorists in southern San Mateo County and have built for ourselves a record of dependability of which we feel justly proud.

However, we know that without the faithful co-operation and patronage of our many friends that our growth and advancement would have been impossible.

We want to thank the entire populace of the community and to express our true appreciation to everyone that we have had the opportunity to serve.

We want to continue to grow and keep step with the fast-moving progressive automotive industry of which we are a part.

On this, our 10th anniversary, we again pledge ourselves to the policy of SERVICE to all.

Edwards' DEPENDABLE Coffee

We'll Let You Figure This Out for Yourself
By "JIM" EDWARDS, Safeway Grocer

Maybe, you've never looked at coffee this way. But it's well worth doing—to find out how little a cup of top-notch coffee costs you.

To begin with, the price of Airway is mighty low—17c a pound. A pound gives you 50 cups (that's a lot of cups)! Divide 17c by 50 and what have you? The proof that you're paying only 1-3c per cup, when you use Airway.

You'll find, too, that the cost per cup of Nob Hill or Dependable is proportionately low. Get any one of our three brands. You'll be buying coffee sensibly—satisfying your taste and going easy on the budget!

Landscaping Plans For Theatres O.K.'d

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Jan. 20.—A complete landscaping plan for Stanford University's proposed Memorial Theatre and adjoining Woodland Amphitheatre was accepted today by Comptroller Almon E. Roth.

A dense planting of "plane" trees will transform the present open field of the theatre area into a garden spot with informal paths leading to the buildings. It is planned to accommodate 7500 spectators in the amphitheatre, leaving room for enlargement to a seating capacity of 15,000.

Roth expects work to begin on the amphitheatre foundation this week. Dirt from the Embarcadero subway will be used. Work on the Memorial Theatre will not begin for six weeks, pending cost estimates and arrival of materials.

Income Refunds Due Six County People

The federal government will shortly refund income and estate taxes in excess of $500 apiece to six peninsula taxpayers, it was disclosed in Washington today by the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The refunds are for excess tax collections made during the fiscal year which ended July 1, 1935.

Individuals or corporations who will receive returns of $500 or more are reported by the Associated Press as follows: Frank Albert Banzhaf, Burlingame, $795; Mrs. Celia Tobin Clark, San Mateo, $846; G. A. Harlan & Company, San Jose, $555; Mrs. Marie F. Mullanen, Hillsborough, $861; C. M. O'Brien, San Jose, $696; estate of Marion T. Pierce, San Jose, $3934.

Drugged By Liquor, S. S. F. Man Robbed

(Special to The Tribune)
DALY CITY, Jan. 20.—Elmer Scheu, 29-year-old San Francisco insurance salesman, was recovering today after being left unconscious by the side of a side road near Colma Saturday night. Scheu told hospital attendants he picked up two hitch hikers at the Cliff House. They insisted he take a drink of their liquor. Scheu said he lost consciousness and awoke at the Villa Sanitarium. His car, $16 in cash and his shoes were gone.

Count Shows Swing To Bourbon Party In New Setup

If a cross section of 640 of the approximately 15,000 affidavits of registration filed in the office of County Clerk E. B. Hinman since January 2 can be used as a criterion, Democrats are now in the majority in San Mateo county.

Of the 640 random certificates, representing a dozen communities, 375 were of Democrats, 226 Republicans and 39 non-partisan, declined to state, or others.

Impressions gained by the 12 extra girls checking affidavits in the office under direction of Registration Deputy Ethel B. Skellenger were that the county was largely Democratic with the exception of Burlingame and San Carlos.

The random count confirmed their views as regards Burlingame, but not the other districts.

NO COMMUNISTS YET

Besides Burlingame, the only community showing a Republican preference in the count was East Palo Alto.

As yet, not a single Communist has been registered. Outside of Democrats and Republicans, most people merely "decline to state" party affiliation. One Farmer-Labor was noticed and several non-partisan and Progressive affiliations.

No complete count of party affiliations will be started by Hinman's office until registration for the May 5 primaries closes on March 26.

While about a third of the county's voting citizens have registered already in the three weeks since re-registration began under a legislative amendment, many have been holding back, according to reports, waiting to see whether a Townsend party is launched in California.

The check shows considerable divergence from the registration in the county as of November 6, 1934, when 19,559 Democrats and 25,509 Republicans were registered, along with 1785 of other parties.

Despite the Republican registration at the time, in the 1934 general election the county voted Democratic, 17,435 casting ballots on that ticket as compared with 12,157 on the Republican ticket.

The random count taken in Mrs. Skellenger's bureau, which it should be borne in mind is in no way final or official, follows:

Planners Again Postpone Action On Dance Hall

Not until February 21 will Ralph Oneta and Paul Casazza, as well as interested citizens of the Woodside district, know if the two men's application to establish a picnic grounds and dance hall near Woodside will be approved or rejected by the county planning commission.

This was decided upon by the commission at its week-end meeting. The extra month before decision is to be made on the application was given to allow the city of San Francisco time to consider purchasing the property held by Oneta and Casazza. A question has arisen as to whether establishment of the entertainment place would endanger the Crystal Springs Reservoir, water supply of San Francisco. George J. Davis, official of the San Francisco Water Company, said he would urge the city to purchase the property, which is one of the few remaining units in the watershed not already owned by San Francisco.

The planners granted application of J. H. Stubbe to build a chicken hatchery at the University avenue-Bay road intersection in North Palo Alto; rejected Don Currier's application to establish a chicken ranch in Millbrae; postponed to the next meeting consideration of the application of Lewis B. Hoss, Helen M. Howe and J. H. Stubbe to build duplex houses in the single family agricultural area in North Palo Alto, and promised consideration of South San Francisco Chamber of Commerce's plea for aid to prevent disposal of sewage into a drainage ditch, thereby periling that city's water supply.

HUNTING the GIANT RAY of the TROPIC SEAS

Like a monster from a bad dream is this weird looking ocean giant, but if you like your fish large, he can give you some exciting moments

By Anthony V. Ragusin

HERE are strange monsters in the vasty deep, and some tall tales get told about the queer creatures that live in tropic seas. But there is one of them about whom the tales do not need to be exaggerated, because the actual truth is more weird than anything that could be invented.

This is the giant ray, or manta, or devil-fish—he has several names—of the Gulf of Mexico; an unearthly sort of creature that someone might have dreamed of on an especially restless night, a being which might be a cross between a shark and an eagle—with a touch of 10-ton truck thrown in.

The ray is wide—wider than he is long—and flat. An adult specimen will measure a good 20 feet from wing to wing (yes, rays have wings, even if they are fish), and weights of two or three tons are common. The mouth will be two feet wide, or more, and is practically toothless. Two peculiar lobes, like pectoral fins, extend out from each side of the head.

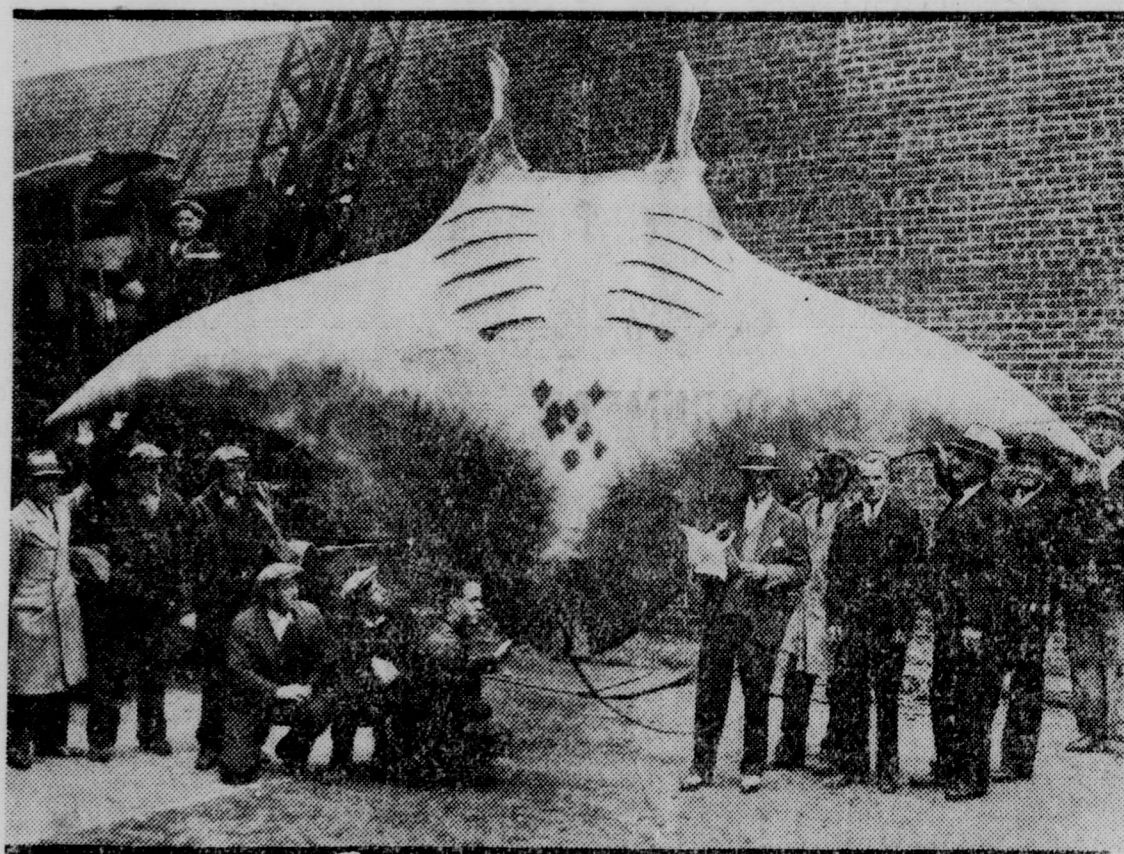

All in all, the ray is as queer a monster as the ocean holds. And since, being so wide and flat and so tremendously powerful, he is one of the huskiest swimmers ever seen, and can provide a venturesome fisherman with an uncommonly exciting kind of sport.

I got my introduction to this sport on a little powerboat in the waters of the Gulf near Pascagoula, Miss. I had seen many of the creatures, of course—they are common along the Gulf coast in the winter—but I had never helped to catch one, and I had with me a friend from Iowa who refused even to believe in the ray's existence.

So Capt. Elmer Gautier brought around his boat, "Flapper," and the hunt was on.

AS the boat set out, we lolled on the hatch on the forward deck and talked of the habits of our quarry. And as we talked Captain Elmer's brother, Horace, brought up four harpoons for our inspection. They were razor-sharp affairs of tool steel, ranging in length from eight to 16 inches; and as we peered the waters where rays were to be found, Captain Elmer made one of them ready.

Five hundred feet of three-quarter-inch rope lay coiled in the bow. One end of this was attached to a harpoon, which was then fitted over the shank of a long pole, to which the line was hooked by a slip knot. Then, as the "Flapper" cleared Dog Keys Pass between Ship Island and the Isle of Caprice, and swung out beyond Horn Island, Elmer returned to the helm and Horace shinned to the cross-trees of the stumpy mast and surveyed the blue waters of the Gulf.

One of the largest rays ever caught—a monster more than 20 feet wide, taken off Deal Beach, N. J. Its captor, Capt. A. Kahn, standing in the center, is holding a baby ray to which the monster gave birth after being caught.

Presently he gave a cry. "Off to starboard, Elmer! Three of them—no, four! Maybe five!"

Down the mast he came again, to take the wheel. Elmer came forward with the harpoon. The doubter from Iowa, along with the rest of us, came up behind him to see.

Off to the port side, close to the boat, swam one of the monster rays, his sleek, polished back gleaming in the sun as he broke surface. He was paying not the slightest attention to the boat. As Horace cut the boat's speed, on a sign from Elmer, Elmer took the harpoon and stood at the bow, holding on to the rigging with one hand.

The boat came close. Elmer leaned out and sped the harpoon down.

Instantly the lethargy of the great sea monster vanished. One of his huge wings turned upward from below the surface and showered the boat and everyone on it with spray. Then the ray slid swiftly down under water.

Elmer's aim had not been quite true. The harpoon failed to hold. As the boat circled about, Elmer made ready for another cast.

At this point the ray made his big mistake.

Thinking, perhaps, that the strange creature that had struck at him was no more than mildly annoying, he disdained flight, and instead came to the surface again near the "Flapper." Once more the boat was brought close to him, and once more Elmer struck. This time the harpoon sank home and held.

Then the excitement began.

THE ray started by diving for the bottom at once. Since the water here was only about 45 feet deep, this did not take long; and then the giant ray set out for the open sea, towing the boat after him at a surprising clip. The boat's motor was shut off—you don't need a propeller when you have a giant ray to tow you.

For a time there was nothing to do but wait—and ride. Now and then the great ray would appear on the surface, to sink below again immediately. After an hour, however, the strain began to tell on his great strength. His progress became slower; we slowly pulled the line aboard, bringing our quarry nearer and nearer to the boat.

Tired, the ray came to the surface to stay. Then Elmer got out his rifle, and fired several bullets into the great body.

The sting of pain instantly aroused the creature to a new display of strength. Off it started once more, and again we were treated to a joy ride, as the powerful monster plied its huge wings just below the surface.

But the end was only postponed. The ray was steadily losing blood, and the terrific strain of the harpoon line was too much even for its great strength. So finally, two hours and fourteen minutes after the first thrust of the harpoon, the ray made his big mistake.

Elmer leaned out and sped the harpoon down. Instantly the lethargy of the great sea monster vanished. One of his huge wings turned upward from below the surface and showered the boat and everyone on it with spray.

whopper that turned out to be!"

We propped the ray's mouth open with a stick and Iowa Jim bent close to look at the huge cavity. He satisfied himself that it was practically toothless; nevertheless, it looked so aweinspiring that he remarked, "I'd hate to fall overboard among a school of these babies, even if they don't have any teeth."

Captain Elmer, however, said he thought such a venture would be safe. I recalled that once I was on a Coast Guard boat, along with some state and federal game agents who were inspecting bird reservations on the islands, and a huge ray came up alongside our craft. I adjusted my camera and got a photograph, and I now remarked that it would have been a better picture if someone had only been in the water beside the ray, to show the comparative sizes. Unconvinced by Elmer's assurances, Iowa Jim remarked bluntly, "You're crazy."

The prevailing opinion along the coast is that unless molested the ray will swim about minding his own business. However, the eerie old story told by the pearl fishermen of the Caribbean was recalled, and was recounted for what it might be worth.

According to these people, the pearl fisherman must never go down into the water when a ray is near. If he does, the creature will swim up to him, fold him within his enormous wings, and devour him at his leisure. However, even those who believe the story are unable to cite any instances where anything of the kind has actually occurred, and the best opinion seems to be that for all its size and strength the ray is harmless to human beings.

Having beached our ray, we naturally made a careful examination of it. It measured just 20 feet from wing tip to wing tip, and slightly less than that from head to tail. The mouth was, as stated, better than two feet wide, while the creature's great body was approximately two feet thick in the fattest part.

BLACK above, the ray was white below, with splashes of gray. Its gills were very extensive, forming a huge, lattice-work arrangement on the under side.

When I stuck my hand in these openings I could understand the story I had heard many years ago. A man fishing off Ship Island Pass in a rowboat was suddenly taken out to sea when a giant ray made off with his anchor, and he had to cut his anchor rope to get back to shore. He supposed that the ray had swallowed his anchor; but people more familiar with rays suggested that instead the anchor flukes had probably caught in the ray's gills while the ray was swimming along the bottom.

A discussion of the ray's dietary habits revealed that no one was quite sure just what these monsters eat. It is supposed that they are bottom feeders, and there is a common belief that they use the grotesque fins, or flippers, at either side of the mouth to sweep food into their jaws.

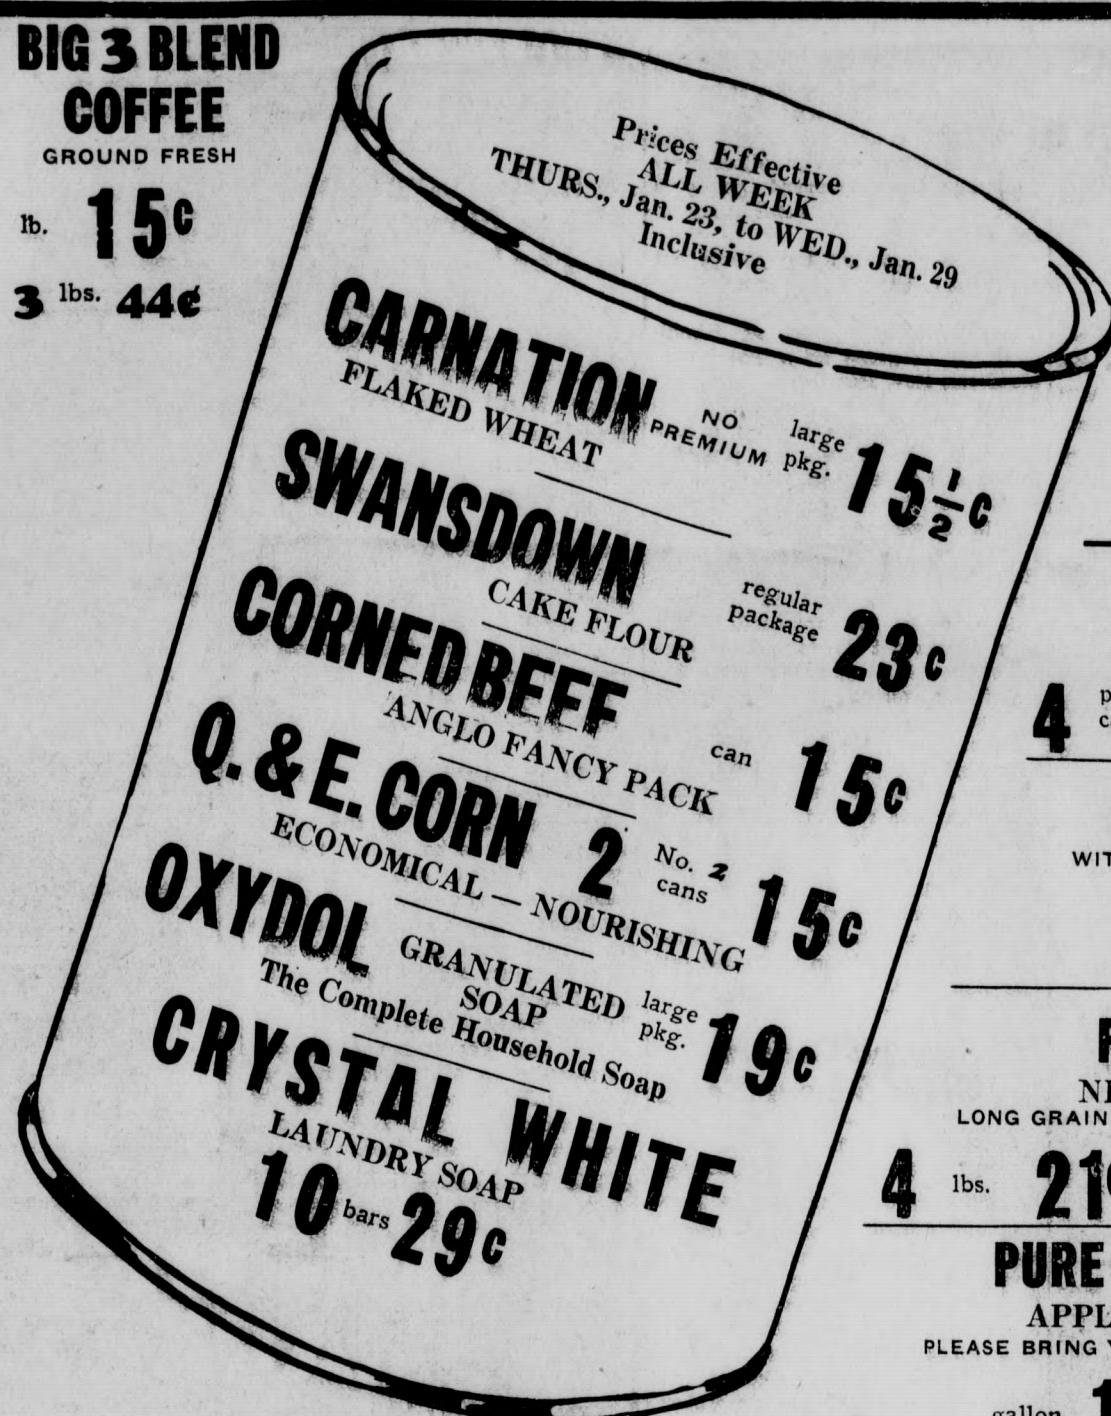

The flurry that results when a ray feels the barbs of a harpoon—a photograph taken just after one of the huge creatures had been struck.

poon, the ray gave up the fight. We brought the boat alongside, fastened additional lines to the now dying ray, and set out for shore to beach our catch.

Eventually we reached a shelving beach in the lee of Petit Bois Island. Getting the creature up on the sand was quite a problem, but by dint of getting thigh-deep into the water and doing much tugging and hauling, we finally succeeded.

As we did, several remoras, or shark-suckers, reluctantly detached themselves from the ray's body and swam away. These fish have peculiar little suckers on their backs; they use them to fasten themselves to sharks, swordfish or rays and get free rides about the sea.

OUR Iowa skeptic was at last convinced, when we had the ray beached. He looked at it in awe and murmured, "Gosh, what a

Other Items Handled At Regular Meeting Of City Council

Redwood City's test case to determine legality of its 1915 bond act refunding plan authorized by the voters on September 24, 1935, is ready for filing in the supreme court, City Attorney Albert Mansfield informed the council Monday night. Proof of the brief will be in hand today.

The council named the firm of Orrick, Palmer & Dahlquist, San Francisco, to serve as special counsel in the supreme court case.

The city is seeking a writ of mandate in a friendly suit to compel City Treasurer B. E. Myers to sign the $425,000 issue of bonds to refund the debt.

J. C. Youngberg, who is representing the city in negotiations for purchase of the outstanding 1915 act bonds, sold the city $5,149.88 of par value 1915 act bonds for $4,768.64 last night. This represents a saving in principal of $381.24 and in interest of $232.74, or a total profit of $613.98, on this small bond.

The bonds were purchased on motion of Councilman Louis Christensen and second of Councilman Evans Fletcher.

Other business: C. E. Bunyard was granted permission of the council to construct an addition to his building on the Woodside road, as approved by the planning commission, and subject to compliance with city building ordinances.

Floyd E. Kelly was granted a permit to conduct weekly Saturday night dances in Foresters' Hall at the regular license fee.

Bids for public liability insurance were ordered submitted sealed to the city council at its February 3 meeting.

The council was advised the next meeting of the peninsula section.

Coastiders Urged To Zone Property

In a meeting marked by jubilation over the recent $255,000 grant by the state for construction of the Ocean Shore highway, the Coastside Civic Union Tuesday at Mori's Point heard a speech by Urban Stewart of the Federal Housing Administration.

Stewart advocated zoning of unincorporated areas, declaring housing loans over $2,000 must be on homes that are up to the standard of restricted areas.

A letter was ordered sent thanking the state highway commission and the directors of the highway district for the highway grant.

A telegram was sent Supervisor Al Witt Jr., Colma, and Planning Commission Advisor Hugh Pomeroi, now in the East on county business, wishing the pair success in efforts to secure federal funds for the highway.

PASTOR DISCLOSES THIRD PARTY PLAN

Petitions to Be Put Into Circulation At Given Time

Because times have changed, "the old order giveth way to the new," this country can and will accept the now-looked-upon-as-radical Townsend plan in the very near future, Dr. Ben. T. Wilson, San Jose Unitarian pastor, told nearly 300 Townsends in the Sequoia high school auditorium Saturday night.

"If humans have the intelligence to build airplanes and other remarkable mechanized instruments, the genius of human intelligence can build an economic, political mechanism to lift the people out of the hell of poverty," Dr. Wilson declared, averting that poverty exists only where man uses his hands, not his brains.

Dr. Wilson did not go far into the economics or workings of the Townsend plan because nearly all his audience by raising hands informed him, in answer to a question, that they were already Townsends.

WOULD AID EMPLOYMENT

The speaker asserted that 23,000,000 people were "in the breadlines in America while this meeting is going on;" that 11,000,000 are still unemployed; that in California one out of six is "dependent on the graciousness of Uncle Sam," and claimed that 85 per cent of all people over 65 in America are dependent on others.

The Townsend plan would correct this, he averred, and would not be a charity, but rather the "just deserts" of elderly people for services they have performed.

NEW ECONOMIC GOAL

Dr. Wilson cited the fact that only a few centuries ago heretics were burned at the stake, and that but little more than a century ago advocates of democracy were hanged.

But this is a new day, he said, "a new occasion that teaches new duties."

"The future belongs to those with forward vision. This movement is winning the sympathetic and enthusiastic attention of large groups of people who are moving toward a new economic goal," he asserted.

"Bury your prejudices, get away from narrow thinking, adjust yourself to a new day. Ring out the old; ring in the new."

City Councilman James Ewa was chairman of the meeting. Rev. Norman W. Pendleton, local Congregational Church pastor and prominent Townsendsite, occupied a place on the platform and spoke briefly, disclosing that he already is in possession of one of the petitions to inaugurate formation of a Townsend party in California. At a given time, he said, his and other petitions will be put into circulation throughout the state. Within 24 hours, he prophesied, "we will have enough signatures to make the Townsend party a part of the political machinery of the state."

"We may not use the party, but we want to have it if it is needed," he explained.

Concerning his rumored candidacy for congress on a Townsend platform, Rev. Pendleton said that "we or no one else at the present time are appearing as candidates of the Townsend party. When and if selected, they will be chosen by the machinery set up by the Townsend movement."

"We call attention to the fact that this great movement is not operated in the way old line political parties are operated. This is a movement to take the government out of the hands of the politicians and put it in the hands of the people."

Before the evening session in the high school, Dr. Wilson was greeted at the firehouse by a dozen Democrat leaders of the county, at which a discussion of the coming campaign was held and his possible candidacy for congress on the Democratic ticket considered, with no conclusions being reached other than a decision to sound out the electorate.

Burlingame Officer Urges School Bond

(Special to The Tribune)

BURLINGAME, Jan. 23.—That he would recommend to the Burlingame school board resubmission to the public of an $85,000 bond issue to earthquake proof this city's elementary schools, was announced today by L. D. Henderson, school superintendent.

The bond issue was defeated last April when only 850 people voted. Later when the school board had applied for a $38,000 WPA loan for the project, planning to contribute $48,000 itself, the board grew tired of endless delays and withdrew its application just a few weeks before the project was approved.

DRIVERS MISS SOME BLAME

DES MOINES, Ia. (AP)—A driver isn't always necessary in all auto accidents, state motor vehicle statistics revealed. In one month, six accidents were reported, involving moving, driverless automobiles. Failure to set brakes on hills and inclines allowed the cars to roll away.
